EXPERT POLICE SHOTS SELECTED.

Thirty-Four Officers, Led by Patrolman Wells, Chosen as Reppresentative Marksmen.

CAPTAIN M'NAMEE WAS SECOND

Mistake in Entries May Have Kept Him From First Place-Hasson Was High Man in Closing Day's Shoot Match.

After a steady course of target practice at the Armory, in which the entire police force has been tried out in marksmanship with revolvers, thirty-four officers have been selected by Captains Roemer and Schanf, the drillmaster and coach of the practice squad, to constitute the expert class of the force and from whose number the officers will be chosen to represent this city in the matches with Chicago and New

When the total scores of the ten days' final shoot were added yesterday, Officer Wells of the Second District was found to be in the lead, with Captain McNamee of the Mounted District in second place. Officer William Longsworth of the Central District was third, Dryden of the Ninth was fourth and Hasson of the Fourth District finished in fifth place, all making totals of more than 2,100 in their 100 final

One of Captain McNamee's scores, which will be inspected to-day, may result in bringing him into first place in the total, as is was found that the score had been written down as 212 in the score book, while the figure given out by the official scorer on the first day of the shoot was 233. This will be looked into to-day.

The result of the shoot has been a testi-mony to the value of the practice, as some marksmen have been developed who could marksmen have been developed who could hold their own in any company. Captains Roemer and Schaaf are greatly gratified with the showing made by the officers, and the result has exceeded their expectations. Captain Schaaf will go to Chicago next week to make arrangements for a telegraphic shoot with the Chicago force as an opening contest and the men to compete in this shoot will be chosen in the next six days.

Members of the expert class will meet to day at the Armory, and will practice for the next six days, the team to represent this city, which will be of from ten to twenty men, to be then selected from those making the best records. Captain Schaaf will then go to Chicago to arrange the shoot.

something of a surprise, in spite of the fact that he has been doing steady work in all his competitions. It looked for a time fact that he has been doing steady work in all his competitions. It looked for a time as if first place lay between Officers Longsworth and Shipp, but the latter had an attack of illness halfway through the shoot, forcing him to make up his work afterwards before he had fully recovered. Officer Longsworth shot a remarkably good series of scores, but one or two off days resulted in his falling slightly back and only securing third place in the total.

Captain McNamee probably did as steady work as any competitor, all his scores being above the 100 mark with but three exceptions. Hasson, who finished in fifth place, was high man in the final shoot yeslaceday, making a total of 230. Officer Shipp day and a stroke of had luck in his last shot Theesterday, the hullet missing the target darough his gun slipping after he had scored our straight buliseyes.

Captain Roemer has worked herd at the Urey ver practice, and the result has justified in the country. Captain Schaaf, the other place in the country. Captain Schaaf, the other had so and states that the men of this city will hold the Chicago officers safe. The thirty-four officers sejected yesterday will now be classed as experts, while the next grade, numbering about fifty men, will be known as the first rank, the next as the second class and the remainder of the force as third class. Those who will con-be known as the first rank, the next as the second class and the remainder of the force as third class. Those who will consiltute the expert class, with their districts and total scores, are:

All officers competing in the final shoot fired ten strings of ten shots each on a 2 inch bull's-eye at 36 feet. The aggregate of their ten scores was taken as their total mark for the shoot. The bull's-eye was divided into three concentric rings, the innermost counting 25, the next 24 and the outer 23. So a man getting ten shots in the bull's-eye might still score but 230 out of a possible 250. The excellence of the total scores may be readily seen from this. In the last ten days shooting, various officers have come to the front and led the squad in the day's work. Some dropped back and others remained in the front rank steadily. The scores that counted were of the steady order, however, and among those totaling the highest scores will be found men who never reached the position of leader for the day, but who were always well up in the first rank.

Captain Roemer has been steadily at work on the practice for two months, and in that time he has developed a squad of as good police marksmen as can be found anywhere. Both he and Captain Schaaf are confident that the team will defeat the Chicago crack shots, and a tele-graph match will be arranged before the close of next week as an opening com-

For the next six days the thirty-four offi-For the next six days the thirty-four officers will meet at the Armory and will continue their work, those making the best scores being graded in sequence and chosen in that order as representatives of this city in case it is decided to send a team of but a few members to other cities.

Scores in detail of Officer Wells and Captain McNamee, as entered in the score book, in the final ten days shoot, added after each five shots, were as follows:

Officer Wells—116, 78, 72, 113, 103, 104, 112, 112, 103, 103, 108, 105, 105, 108, 111, 108, 112, 111, 115, 105, 109.

5, 109. Captain McNamee—107, 100, 105, 100, 99, 105, 2, 118, 109, 92, 116, 117, 108, 84, 116, 104, 112, 9, 114, 110. Captain McNamee believes that the first Captain McNamee believes that the first two entries in his score are mistakes, how-ever, and in this he is borne out by the re-ports issued by the official scorer to the press on the occasion of the shoot. Instead of an aggregate of 207, the score given out was 233, which would place him in the lead of the entire force. All targets have been preserved, and the matter will be looked up preserved, and the matter will be looked up to-day.

In yesterday's shoot the closing competi-tion of the finals, Officer Hasson came to the front with a score of 230, followed by Officers Cabanne and Gibbons with 225 each, Others making good scores were Captain McNamee, Officer Jeans and Officer Miller, who made 224 each; Hancock, 222; Maupin, 221; Reeves, 219; Longsworth, 218; O'Gorman and Hussey, 215, and Officer Wells, 214.

NEWS AND GOSSIP OF THE GREYHOUNDS.

Season Just Closed Proves That Coursing Minus Betting Is Not a Profitable Pastime.

LORD BRAZEN THE BEST DOG.

Mr. Crawford's Puppy Displayed the Best Speed and Form Seen During the Year-Linlithgow Lass Next in Rank.

Although the coursing season was dis continued, chiefly for the reason that the greyhounds available were quite overdone and run to staleness, the fact that coursing without the concomitant of betting is rather a failure has been as thoroughly demonstrated as those who were best acquaint d with the situation expected it would be. Whatever coursing may be in England-and they bet very extensively on it there, both publicly and privately-it is quite certain that it will not flourish and be selfsustaining in America unless spectators can bet upon the contests of speed and clever-ness between greyhounds. While many sportsmen of the sol disant, "higher class," are prone to harp upon the British love of sport for the sport's dear sake, it is none the less a fact that more money is but by more people on more various things in one more people on more various things in one week in England than is wagered in all America on all sports in one month. Gambling in America is really restricted to a certain class of semiprofessional gamesters. The amateur gambler as ne exists in Great Britain is almost wholly unknown in America. In this country, he who makes a practice of betting is usually much better informed about his subject and business than the English sportsmen of comparatively Sixth Race—Marion Lynch, Mallakwa, Rushnelds.

The past course of betting is under the English subject

The past coursing season fully demonstrated the futility of attempting to profitably or safely conduct coursing without betting. In the carly days of the coursing year, when the State laws permitted betting, the coursing matches were well attended and quite profitable. When the betting feature was eliminated by the arrival of the close season of sport in Missouri the attendance fell off in a very noticeable manner. Recently, though the stakes were of good class and the weather most propitious, it has been filmost nil.

Horse racing without betting cannot exist in this or probably any other country, at least not on a scale of seriousness that would justify it in being called a sport. The same is quite true of coursing.

same is quite true of coursing.

The Pastime Coursing Club proposes to open its spring campaign on March 17. The enthusiastic secretary, Benson, predicts a brilliant spring season. Mr. Benson always reminds me so much of the hero of the cricket match in Pickwick Papers, Mr. Straggles, who always worked so hard, hoped so much, and received so little for his labor and devotion and pains. He is always working like a negro farm hand, always hopeful as De Quincy's oplum fiend, and the bright canvas of his dream is lurid indeed in its gorgeous expectation. The season of legal betting upon sporting events, trials of skill and strength between man and beast, as the statute puts it, does not begin beast, as the statute puts it, does not begin until April 15. The law was made for horse until April 15. The law was made for horse racing, not coursing, and it embraces the division of the seasons diametrically opposed to the interests of that latter sport. No matter how brilliant the prospectus of the Pastime Club may be, and no matter how fine a nomination they may secure for their stakes, it is quite certain that unless they can secure permission to have open betting on their coursing matches the sport cannot be made to pay its way. Mr. Benson's glorious noon dreams to the contrary notwithstanding.

cannot be made to pay its way. Mr. Benson's glorious noon dreams to the contrary notwithstanding.

The season now ended developed many good dogs. Though the park is not large, some excellent sport was secured within its narrow dimensions. Though critics may carp at the size of the grounds, it is a fact that the best dog usually won, save when the judge was mistaken. There were perhans times when the best dog would not have won had the park been bigger or smaller, as the case might be. But on the whole the best dog won quite as often as on the prairie or in a larger park.

The hares ran stoutly after the decadence of the early fall months, which were warm and not in favor of good coursing in any way. The judging, all told, has been exceedingly good, first by Mr. Smith and afterwards by Mr. Robinson. Mr. Egan's slipping has been uniformly excellent.

Lord Brazen (Ben Hur-Brazen Bliddy), the black dog puppy owned by Mr. G. L. Crawford, was undoubtedly the best grey-hound, local or otherwise, seen at Pastime Park during the season. While it is quite true he was beaten in the American Derby, a stake of champlonship nature, by Linlithgow Lass, that defeat was more or less fluky. He clearly had the speed of the pair. After leading up he, for a moment, became confused on the location of the hare after the first turn. Of this mistake the clever daughter of Terrona took fullest advantage and beat him before he recovered his bearings. If Lord Brazen was not a very clever dog, one would be inclined to attribute his defeat to such a possible inadequacy. However, he is exceedingly clever and this, his single failure to be so must be attributed to ill-fortune. Though a mere puppy, he was put out of the Waterloo Cup on what seemed a grossible inadequacy. However, he is exceedingly clever and this, his single failure to convince good judges of speed, form and style that he was the best dog in the stake. He was the was the most dashing and brilliant performance seen at Pastime Park this season. The dog's sole fault seemed to be

To be sure, the owners of many good ones, chiefly Mr. Dwyer, who owns Linlithgow Lass, who beat Lord Brazen: Mr. Ross, owner of the excellent and clever bitch, Miss Pye; Mr. Becker, owner of the crack pair, Monsoon, the Waterloo winner, and Diana le Diable; Mr. Lavin, the proud owner of Bright Chain and Haredine, and many others may dispute this arbitrary decision. The only one of this lot that met Lord Brazen-Linlithgow Lass-beat him. He had a good three lengths of speed on her. He was not at his best, either. When a dog of such cleverness as Lord Brazen shows impressive superiority of speed, his losing to a slower one must be accepted as hard luck.

Miss Pye and Linlithgow Lass have similar records. They have met and beaten much the same class of dogs in the same way. On the best that both have done way. On the best that both have done scarcely discernible, and a match between them would go to the one that was most fortunate and in the best form at the time. These two bitches must be placed next to Lord Brazen in merit of performance.

Mr. Lavin's imported pair. Haredine and next to Lord Brazen in main. Haredine and ance.

Mr. Lavin's imported pair. Haredine and Bright Chain, displayed promise of tremendous ability, even at times when they were not in good condition. Bright Chain arrived from England late in the hot summer and in very bad physical condition. He ran a grand dog, everything considered, but had no chance to display his true form. The same may be said of Haredine, who is hardly up to her kennel mate in point of speed or determination, shough she may be superior to him in eleverness.

Even this is doubtful. From what he displayed when out of condition, and considering his breeding, one would be very much inclined to class Bright Chain up with Lord Brazen. In point of disposition and breeding the imported dog far excels Mr. Crawford's crack, but not in point of performance. Bright Chain is one of the highest bred dogs ever imported to America, and his disposition, courage, determination and jealousy of the other dog's possession combine to make his temperament a splendid and most desirable one. Then, if small, he is marvelously well conformed all over.

Without detracting in the slightest from the great victories of Monsoon, who is indeed clever, cunning, and most wonderfully lucky, he cannot, despite his Waterloo triumph, be ranked with the others. Considering the hard usage to which he has been subjected from puppyhood, he is a really marvelous dog, and in its light the least of victories do him credit beyond what the greatest triumphs of dogs more favored might do them. As he is cunning, tricky, and an in-and-outer, he cannot be rated as good as six other dogs in St. Louis.

The complete failure of the great Warburton, the undisputed champion of the two previous seasons, has been previously discussed in these columns. Though the big black has been in better condition, better disposition and seemed to be trying harder than he ever did in his life, he has not been within many lengths of his speed this winter. Just why it is is not easy to say, but it is probably due to the loss of form which comes to men and animals at times. It would not surprise me to see Warburton sweep the boards clear when the flowers bloom in the spring.

Laushing Water, Mr. Crawford's clever.

Laughing Water, Mr. Crawford's clever white bitch, wound up the season in the traditional journalistic blaze of glory by traditional journalistic blaze of glory by winning two good stakes within four days. While the daughter of St. Clair and Maid of Honor displayed excellent speed and most amazing eleverness, the writer cannot place her in the same plane as the other pupples. Lord Brazen, Miss Pye or Linlithgow Loss, The latter led her most conclusively when they met and is almost as ciever. Then she maintained her good form longer than Laughing Water, a very important feature indeed.

In Adder, an imported bitch by Todiaw Ruins—Jessie Anderson, Mr. Eddie Hardy turned out a good but most unfortunate greyhound. Of the unlucky and detested blue color, she is the best proportioned greyhound in point of adaptability to exacting servitude the writer ever saw.

However, her tremendous muscularity seemed to work to the disadvantage of her feet. Through the extraordinarity powerful muscles of her shoulders, hips and back she made such extravagant use of her toenalls that the latter are always breaking. Adder hus a good turn of speed, is very clever and can stay all day.

These are about the really first-class dogs shown during the season. It will be remarked that the pupples head the list and form a large majority of it. Lord Brazen, Miss Pye, Linlithgow Lass and Laughing Water must be ranked at the very top. This goes a long way to prove the old coursers' contention, that a fresh, well-grown dog is as good at 29 months as he ever will be.

TREATS CORRIGAN INDIFFERENTLY. Western Jockey Club Does Not Bar Him as It Did Sloan.

grown dog is as good at 29 months as h ever will be. J. B. SHERIDAN.

REPUBLIC SPECIAL. New York, Jan. 16.—The attitude of the Western Jockey Club this winter toward Edward Corrigan is very different from what it was toward Tod Sloan last winter. Sloan, who was notified in the British Racing Calendar in January that he need not apply to the British stewards for a license to ride in Great Britain during 1999, was quietly tipped off by persons supposed to be in the secrets of President Lawrence Young and his associates in the management of the game about Chicago and the middle West, that he had better not apply for a license to ride on the Western Jockey Club's circuit. If he disregarded the tip, he was given to understand, he would meet with a rebuff which might forever hurt his standing as a jockey in this country.

It has been officially announced in England that Corrigan will not get a license to train on Newmarket Heath this year if he applies for it; yet the secretary of the Washington Park Club of Chicago, the leading member of the Western Jockey Club, has come out with a gratuitous announcement that Corrigan's entries will be gladly received by the Washington Park Club, and that he may race and train there as long as he likes.

The indorsement of the Washington Park Club, will, of course, carry Corrigan through the gates of the other tracks of the Western Jockey Club's circuit—at Little Rock, Memphis, New Orleans, Nashville, Louisville, Latonia and St. Louis—and is taken by Eastern horsemen to mean that the Western Jockey Club's circuit—at Little Rock, Memphis, New Orleans, Nashville, Louisville, Latonia and St. Louis—and is taken by Eastern horsemen to mean that the Western Jockey Club's circuit—at Little Rock, Memphis, New Orleans, Nashville, Louisville, Latonia and St. Louis—and is taken by Eastern horsemen to mean that the Western Jockey Club will not officially notice the action of the Washington Park Club is puzzling because of the declaration made last winter by President Young that no owner or trainer under the ban of any Edward Corrigan is very different from last winter by President Young that no owner or trainer under the ban of any recognized turf body would be permitted to train or own or ride horses at any Western Jockey Club track. In Sloan's case that rule was practically enforced.

Jockey Henry Says Vanderbilt Has a Good Chance for English Derby. New York, Jan. 16.-Milton Henry, who rode for J. R. and F. P. Keene in England rode for J. R. and F. P. Keene in England last year, says that W. K. Vanderbilt has a good chance to win the English Derby this season with his American-bred colt Elismere.

"I saw Elismere win a seven-furiong dash from a fast field of 2 and 3-year-olds, said Henry, "and he impressed me as being a colt above the average in ability. He resembles W. C. Whitney's Yankee more than any horse I can think of. The only difference between them is in color, Elismere being a brown while Yankee is a bay. Both colts are by Hanover. They are both resolute finishers, with plenty of speed.

"W. K. Vanderbilt has a fine place at Poissy, near Parls. All the stables and buildings are built in the American style. Eddie Hughes, who left here last summer to train for him, has had considerable success. J. B Buchanan, a California jockey, will ride for Mr. Vanderbilt this season. I will sail for France on February 18. I have been engaged to ride for Baron de Rothschild, father-in-law to the well-known French owner, M. Emprussi."

CARR TIES STATE RECORD. Also Breaks an Alley Record for High Three Games.

The tenpin bowlers are girding up their loins for the Buffalo contest next week, and if they can equal some of the records they have made at home, they stand a good have made at home, they stand a good chance to figure among the winners. On the Grand allevs last night, Carr, of the team which will go to Buffalo from the Grand alleys, tied the State record for high single game, totaling 289 pins.

In his airst game he registered 213, following with his nearly successful attempt to smash a record. Bowling against the Florists Wednesday, Carr broke the record of the Grand alleys for high three games, registering in succession 256, 255 and 253.

BEALL SAYS HE WILL FIGHT. Will Not Submit Tamely to Loss of His Franchise.

Omaha, Jan. 16 .- A special to the World Herald from Sioux City, Ia., says: A. B. Beall, who was expelled from the Western Baseball League at Kansas City Western Baseball League at Kansas City for unloading the Minneapolis franchise, declares since his return home that he will fight the Western League to a finish.

"They can't rob me and expect me to submit peacefully," he said, "I hold the Denver franchise and I propose to hold it. I will tie them up in Kansas City and St. Joe, and if they attempt to play ball in Sloux City I will tie them up here. I wouldn't want anything better than to fight them on my own ground. I have no personal enmity against any man who may get a franchise in Sloux City, but I will oppose the league here to the utmost of my ability. The talk of getting Indianapolis and Milwaukee into the Western League is nonsense."

Rourke Satisfied With Prospect.

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 15.—W. A. Rourke, manager and owner of the Western League Baseball Club in this city, returned to-day from the Kansas City meeting. He is enthusiastic over the result of the meeting and said all talk about nothing being accomplished was nonsense.

"One important thing accomplished," said Rourke. "was the making certain that Kansas City, Milwaukee, Des Moines, Omaha, Denver, Colorado Springs and St. Joseph will be in the league. The eighth city will be determined soon. "Managers of all these teams will soon announce their personnel, We will make it a unanimous affair. I have fourteen men under contract for the Omaha team. Other owners are equally well fixed already.

"Other important steps were taken which we cannot divuige. One was to the end that when these association people come to start their teams, if they ever do, they will find many of the players whom they say they have signed will not be with them, but with us." Rourke Satisfied With Prospect.

There is talk of a match between Frank Erne and Rube Ferns, and Erne at least has consented to such a meeting. He stipulated that the weight should be 140 pounds, and at that figure is confident of securing the decision over the aspirant to the welterweight championship. Erne has evidently taken on considerable weight of late, as dispatches state that he looks big and fat and seems far above his normal weight. Ferns is now under the managership of Jack Hauely, formerly referee at the Olympic Club of this city.
